I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and was cured. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."

—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 8, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

RANDOLPH.

Deaths of C. N. McCall, Rev. Putnam and Funeral of Miss Lamson.

News was received here Tuesday of the death of Rev. Daniel Putnam of Uniontown, Conn., where he was rector of a church. Mr. Putnam was born in Bethel, Me., 43 years ago last September, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Putnam and after receiving his early education here prepared himself for the ministry and entered the Congregational denomination. For several years he did acceptable work in different towns in Maine. Later he left that religious body and joined the Episcopal church and had been located for some time in the state of Connecticut. Last fall he was in poor health for several months, but regained his health and during the winter has been attending to his care of the church and parish. The particulars are not known here only that death came suddenly. He is survived by a wife, an aged father, who has reached the age of 91 years, and one brother, Robert Putnam, who resides in Hanover, N. H.

The remains of Miss Ada Lamson, the youngest daughter of the late Irvin Lamson, were brought here from New York Monday and taken to the home of the uncle, W. E. Lamson, on the Highlands, where the funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, and interment was made in Southview cemetery beside the father and mother, who died several years ago. The bearers for the funeral were Guy, Pearl and John Lamson, all cousins, and E. T. Salisbury, Rev. Homer White being the officiating clergyman. Ada Loretta Lamson was born in Randolph in 1872, the daughter of Irvin and Augusta (Kinney) Lamson, and her childhood was passed here, where she received her education, having graduated from the Randolph high school in '91. Later she went to Maine and engaged in business with her brother, where she passed several years, and about one year ago she entered a hospital in New York City, to take a course of training for a nurse. Here she was seized with an attack of pneumonia about ten days ago, from which there was no relief and death followed. The remains were accompanied here by her two sisters, Mrs. Charles Gormley, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. Frank Gates of Ware, Mass. Miss Lamson is survived by one other sister, Mrs. R. A. Smith, of Vellejo, Cal., and three brothers, one of whom, Fred Lamson, of Stonington, Me., was present, and Joseph Lamson of Ware, Mass., who is critically ill, and Frank Lamson, who is in Alaska.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sanford have arrived from a winter's stay in Florida and other places and have opened their house on Randolph avenue.

Mrs. Mary Strong returned Tuesday from a several weeks' stay in Keene, N. H., with her brother, Hon. Herbert Viall, and while there they made trips to neighboring cities.

News was received here Tuesday morning of the death of Charles N. McCall at New York City, where he was taken about ten days ago for an operation for the removal of pus from his lungs.

Misses Clara and Annie Kimball arrived here from their home in New York Monday and are at Montague place, where it is expected they will, with their mother, Mrs. R. J. Kimball, pass the most of the summer.

Miss Mary Haynes, who has been for the last few months the head nurse at the sanatorium, left for Burlington on Tuesday, where she will pass a few weeks, seeking the rest she so much needs to regain her health, and Miss Florence Howe of Germantown, Pa., has assumed the position at the sanatorium.

H. B. and A. J. Bell have purchased the stock and trade of the G. W. Brown & company in Gardner, Me., and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bell, who went there last week, have now taken possession of the same. The business has been long established, having been operated there for about 50 years under the same firm name, but owing to the death of the senior partner, it was necessary to dispose of the same. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bell will remain there and have charge of the business, and H. B. Bell will look after the interests here, while Miss Flora will eventually follow to Maine, but may be here a part of the time to look after the millinery department somewhat during the busy season.

The May day ball, given in DuBois and Gay's hall on Monday night by Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bass and Mrs. B. D. DuBois, was attended by at least 200 people and greatly enjoyed by all present. The decorations were elaborate and artistic, and the refreshments were dainty and delicious, and served in a manner to please all. In the receiving party were Mrs. DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. Bass, Pres. and Mrs. Spooner of Norwich university and Dr. and Mrs. Blanchard. One of the attractions for the evening was the May pole dance by 12 young ladies, and the queen of the May, Elaine Bass, and her attendant, Harold Church, who led the way to the pole, added much to the beauty of the scene. Seldom in the history of Randolph has there been a more enjoyable occasion, and the hostesses are to be congratulated upon the admirable arrangement and successful management of the same.

NAMING THE BABY

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

There is no prettier village in the whole west than that of Pentwater, situated on the shores of Lake Michigan. It is also a thriving place, but there was a time in its history, and not so many years ago, that it had a terrible fight for its life, and that fight was precipitated by a ten pound boy baby.

Mr. James Pond, a young man of twenty-two, fell in love with Miss Edith Brown. He bought and shipped butter, eggs, potatoes and the like, and she was a schoolteacher. It is not on record that one single person in Pentwater had an objection to the courtship. Marriage followed, and still no objection. It was congratulations instead. But when time had passed and a little feller of a baby jumped into the arena there was a sudden and awful change. The father had become a Sunday school superintendent, and within two days after the birth of the baby he announced that it was to be named Leviticus.

Mrs. Pond was a very good woman, indeed, but she wasn't good enough to stand for such a name as that. She announced that the boy was to be named Leon, and right there the row began. Both had relatives, and the relatives were dragged into it. If you trace the record of Leviticus back you will find that he was a very good man and that his name was all right for the age in which he lived. At that time no one used nicknames. No one thought of shortening his cognomen to "Levi" or "Levi." It was always pronounced in full.

Mrs. Pond and her adherents held that the name had served its purpose and should not be dug up for the benefit of her son. When the two names, "Leviticus" and "Leon," were written side by side the odds seemed to be ten to one in favor of the latter. The boys might cut it to "Lee" and still leave it a pretty name.

"It shall be Leon, little darling, and don't you worry," murmured the mother as she held the kid closer to her bosom and her relatives said they would back her up in it to their last drop of blood.

But there was the father to deal with. He had not been known as a desperate or determined man, but now it appeared that he was. He roared by the beard of his father that the baby should be baptized under the name of Leviticus or not at all, and he began using the name at home and abroad. There were those who congratulated him and told him that he was doing a great thing for Pentwater. It cannot be said that business came to a complete standstill, but it was certainly affected. Several houses that were to be erected were not begun because the interested parties quarreled over that baby.

When the kid had reached the age of six weeks and was just beginning to take an interest in the questions of the day its father insisted that baptism should take place. Tears were shed and protestations made, but in vain. Then he came home to supper one night to find that wife and baby had fled to her mother's. He ordered them back, but they refused to come as mother and Leviticus. Then Mr. Pond's minister and his two deacons stepped in. They hadn't done so before, hoping the affair would be settled in the family. The trouble that faced them now, however, was that they were all for Leviticus. They pronounced the name as softly as they could and had much good to say as to the character of the man, but they made no headway. There were other ministers and deacons in the village, but they kept hands off. Tin peddlers and lightning rod men visited Pentwater, and those who were wise enough not to butt in did good business; those who snuffed at "Leon" and called it a novel name or those who giggled at "Leviticus" and called him a back number got themselves into trouble.

Months went by, but both sides remained firm. But there must come a climax to all things, and Pentwater finally had a climax. It was being proposed by citizens of sense to have a fire, a circus or an earthquake to kill off the old question when a good old man came to the town and heard all about the matter. He was selling a home-made liniment, good for man or beast. It could be used externally or internally or inside out. Rub it on your back with a piece of red flannel and your lumbago would disappear. Take ten drops internally with the red flannel left out, and your heartburn would trouble you no more.

When the old man had learned the particulars of the quarrel over the baby he stroked his venerable chin whiskers and murmured:

"I see, I see. You are a pack of idiots in Pentwater! There should have never been an argument over it."

"Have you got a compromise?" was asked.

"Certainly. You've hit it right there. Let the little shaver be called Compromise Pond, and let his father and mother and the rest of you quit being idiots!"

It was thought over, talked over and adopted within a week, and Pentwater went back to its good old days again.

P. S.—Every citizen keeps a bottle of that home-made liniment on hand against emergencies.

Shoes at Cost Plus 5 Per Cent.

Not Only a Low Profit Over Cost,
But a Low Profit Over a Low Cost.

Have You Ever Wondered
Why Most Good Shoes
Come From Massachusetts?

A traveller in Switzerland saw a child of twelve doing a wonderful piece of embroidery and marvelled at the proficiency of such youthful fingers. "It isn't surprising," said his guide. "That girls' parents, grandparents and great grandparents, back as far as she can reckon, were all lace or embroidery makers. They do nothing else in this valley. The best of the world's best needlework comes from here."

The Regal Shoe Company
Has Long Been the Leader

In that section of Massachusetts where Regal Shoes are made, shoe-making has been the principal industry for more than two hundred years. The best shoes made in the world come from this section, and it has been the Regal policy from its beginning to make Regal Shoes lead all the rest in quality-for-price.

To lead in both quality and low price is harder than to lead in either alone. It is easy to get quality—if you don't care what it costs—but to give that quality at a low price means the highest degree of science in manufacturing in large volume, and straight-line, economical, direct, selling methods.

Why Regal Manufacturing and Selling Costs are Low.

To begin with, the Regal factory equipment is perfect. The Regal manufacturing system is a marvel of economy. The Regal cost-accounting, for example, shows the cost of over two hundred operations and more than one hundred parts on every shoe turned out, down to a hundredth of a cent.

But most perfect of all is the Regal, direct-line selling system—the Regal's own, although copied to some extent by other manufacturers. Regal Shoes go direct from the factories to you by the straightest, most economical route, cutting out jobbers, middlemen and large retailing profits. There is no lost motion, no lost time, no "overstocks," no unnecessary expense, anywhere.

And Regal Shoes are now sold at cost of manufacture, plus five per cent. commission, and this low cost of selling.

Regal Shoes are the only shoes priced in this way. It is the only scientific, economical, "square deal" way of selling shoes. You gain not only by the low margin of manufacturing profit but by the fact that this low margin is reckoned on a low cost.

Buying shoes as you buy other necessities of life

When you buy sugar, flour, eggs, beef, lumber—or any one of a dozen necessities, you pay a price reckoned on the wholesale market cost. If the wholesale or manufacturing cost goes down, the retail price goes down. If it goes up, the retail price goes up in proportion. When the retailer's profits are fair, this is fair to you. But this is not the way that shoes have been sold. Shoes have always sold at fixed, "even money" prices—always multiples of the half dollar.

But Regal Shoes hereafter will be sold in the scientific, economical way—with the profits kept low and the manufacturing cost as the basis.

This Stamp is your guarantee of the

The price of every Regal Shoe is now reckoned at 5 per cent. over actual cost, plus the cost of getting the shoe from the factories to you. This price is CERTIFIED BY PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS AND STAMPED ON THE SHOE AT THE FACTORY. It is stamped just as it figures out—in "odd" prices or in "even" prices—and the old-fashioned arbitrary custom is done away with.

The stamp is your guarantee that the price is THE LOWEST FOR WHICH A SHOE OF THAT CHARACTER CAN BE BOUGHT, that nothing has been added to conform to shoe-trade custom, that MORE of the price goes into quality and LESS for profit and expense than in any other make you can buy.

Regal Prices Are Now $3.35 to $5.85
